

JOIN US FOR A WEBINAR

Sponsored by Virbac

“Otitis Externa: Selecting the Best Topical Therapy for Your Patients”*

Presented by Darren Berger, DVM, DAVCD
Iowa State University College of Veterinary Medicine

This presentation covers the basics of otitis management along with an in depth look at the medications which are commercially available to utilize in treatment of your patients. More specifically it covers occurrence of otitis externa in primary patients, causative agents, relevant ear anatomy, perspective on culturing, use of cleaners, labeled and non-labeled medications, compounding and use of steroids.

Thursday May 19, 2022

6:30 PM CST

7:30 PM EST

To register, please click on the link below:

CLICK HERE TO REGISTER

Here's what your colleagues are saying about Dr. Berger:

“Absolutely excellent presentation! I'm 16 years into practice and love when I leave a talk having learned new things that can be applied practically to my day to day appointments. You had just the right mix of practical advice and scientific studies. Thank you!”

”Excellent information and presentation! Will be very helpful in our practice!”

Dr. Darren Berger is a graduate of Iowa State University. Following graduation, he worked as a small animal practitioner in the state of Iowa. He then went on to complete a residency in dermatology with Dermatology for Animals in Phoenix, AZ. Following completion of his residency, he worked as a boarded dermatologist in Omaha, NE. In 2013, he joined the faculty at Iowa State University. His primary research areas are small animal clinical pharmacology along with canine and equine hypersensitivities.

* This presentation has been approved for 1.5 hrs of continuing education credit in jurisdictions that are RACE approved.

Virbac